

Margrit Frey Obit

Margrit Frey was killed in a mountain hiking fall on Thursday, August 16, 1973. She was staying with her sister and brother-in-law at their parsonage in Hombrechtikon, Switzerland and had gone up into the mountains alone as she often did. Her mother wrote, "Though the path she had chosen was pretty good, she must have fallen down a very steep slope with rocks at the bottom, and seems to have been killed almost instantly."

Margrit was just finishing her work at the University of Zurich where she would have received a degree somewhat equivalent to our doctorate (in English). She had many stories of her teaching experiences while teaching English to women's clubs, and to vocational high school students. Many people felt the loss of this good and kind human being. Bless the memory of Margrit Frey.
